District elementary schools may specialize

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Some West Sacramento schools are looking to specialize. Patrick Campbell, superintendent of the city's school district, said several local schools are looking at becoming "magnet" schools, emphasizing certain curriculum paths.

"The whole purpose is to move the district to the next level, and provide more choices to families," said Campbell.

Elkhorn Elementary is examining the possibility of becoming a "dual immersion" school, he said.

"They're pushing for bilingual, biliteracy and bicultural," he said. They will go from teaching in a 90 percent and 10 percent split, to 50 percent English, 50 percent Spanish instruction."

Bridgeway Island Elementary, though, is looking at becoming an "arts and sciences" center.

"There would be an emphasis on exposing students to the arts and to hands-on science activities," Campbell commented. "The program would start with after-school enrichment programs of performing arts, band, theater and music."

Westmore Oaks Elementary is examining the possibility of emphasizing "fundamentals" in kindergarten through third grade, and then math and science in fourth through sixth grades, "and also in both levels an emphasis on physical education," said Campbell. The school will also look at asking for parent participation requirements.

Southport Elementary School is also looking at a "magnet school" program.

"We're just in the process of putting together a magnet school plan," said Diane Tope Smith, Southport's principal. "I've got the rough draft ready. We would like to become a magnet school of arts and sciences, offering some arts and sciences that would go beyond the regular curriculum."

As at other schools, the proposed "magnet schools" would allow families to have some say in which school their child attends.

"We're proposing that it would be 'open enrollment,' open to anybody (in the district) who would want their child to attend," said Smith. "The people who are already in school here would have first choice to enroll."

At Southport, the emphasis on arts and sciences is already underway in at least one respect.

"We are presently working on an outdoor science center," said Principal Smith, "which we will continue to have even if we do not become a magnet school. We wanted to offer more hands-on science work, where each teacher can take their class to the outdoor science center. We're going to have a butterfly garden, a rock garden, and a dig arranged like an archaeological dig."

Typically, a magnet school takes efforts to arrange much of its coursework around a central theme – a "science" magnet school, for example, might involve its English classes in writing projects that deal with the science projects.

Superintendent Campbell said the plans being made at each school are only coming forth after intensive work with each school's community. None has been finalized and presented to the school board for a vote yet.

West Sac's piano teacher celebrates 90th

Mona Montano contributed to this report

Evelyn Walker turns 90 years old in June, but Soroptimist International service club will hold a very special birthday party for her on May 21. With that many years behind her, she joked yesterday, she is entitled to round the actual date off a little bit.

Walker has spent 70 years teaching piano, tutoring students age five to age 87. So Soroptimist members will use the birthday party to kick off a new "Evelyn Walker Music Scholarship" they are setting up to help local graduates every year.

The party will be at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 905 Drever Street, from 1-5 p.m. – and you're invited.

In the meantime, Walker remains busy – as always – giving lessons. Sometimes she is asked when she will retire.

"Why should I when I love what I'm doing?," she responds. "I have a zillion friends of all ages who give me a reason to get up in the morning and make every day happy! There are marvelous memories of recitals, installations, receptions, weddings, graduations, weddings, funerals, and entertaining seniors and convalescents. Music is such an important part of my life, and I'm so privileged to have a part in it all."

Walker was born in Paris, Arkansas, in 1915, and started piano lessons in the third grade. She studied at Arkansas Tech, Arkansas State Teachers College, University of Arkansaas, and Southeastern Conservatory – where she became an accredited music teacher. She taught music in Paris's public schools for 20 years.

Evelyn married H.W. "Buck" Walker, and the couple had one daughter, Claudia Ann. The family moved to West Sacramento in 1953 and built the Walker Studio of Music in 1954. "Buck" died in 1983.

Evelyn Walker enjoys traveling, having visited all 50 states and 14 countries – mostly recently, Croatia.

In 2003, she was awarded a "Women of Distinction" honor by the Sierra Nevada Region of Soroptimist Internanational of the Americas. She was a charter member, and the third president, of the West Sacramento chapter of Soroptimist.

But a lot of West Sacramentans know her simply as the person who has taught generations of city residents to play piano.

Students and friends are encouraged to attend the celebration on May 21. It will be a potluck, and Walker has asked that, in lieu of birthday gifts, guests consider bringing a donation to the scholarship award. For more information, call Virginia at 428-3509 or email evelyns90th@yahoo.com.

Donations may also be sent to SWIS, PO Box 94, West Sacramento CA 95691.

EVELYN WALKER: she has taught generations of West Sacramentans to tickle the ivories; now, Soroptimist International will start a scholarship in her name

Gas pipe ruptured —

A construction mishap led to a gas leak yesterday morning in Southport.

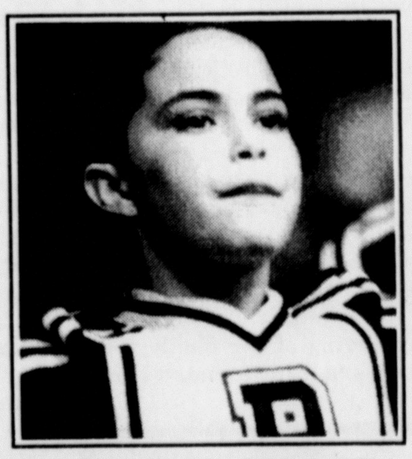
"There was some work being done near a detention basin, and a four-inch gas line was ruptured," said Larry von Kaenel, assistant to the West Sacramento City Manager. "There was some gas escaping that was contained in about an hour. They closed Stonegate Boulevard for about an hour, and evacuated the construction workers that were nearby."

There were no injuries and no other evacuations in that area near Lake Washington Blvd., east of Jefferson, said von Kaenel.

"There were no homes nearby," he added.

Champion cheerer

West Sacramentan Madison Sommer recently completed her first year with Power Cheer All Stars, a junior prep novice team out of Rocklin, California which went undefeated and won several regional and national titles during the 2004-04 season.



MADISON SOMMER

The cheer background that supports Madison began here in West Sacramento with what was formerly known as the West Sac Bears and is now the West Sac Junior Raiders, and cheering on the sidelines for games and competing for those four years helped give her the experience she needed to make it with Power.

The long season required much of 11-year old Madison, from traveling all across the state to endless practices and tumbling sessions. She plans to take a season off and then hopes to make an intermediate Power squad.

School board:

The school board of the Washington Unified School District will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in public session at the civic center, 1110 West Capitol Avenue.

The agenda will include construction management services for the planned K-8 Academy school, bidding of electrical and parking lot work at River City High, a CTA presentation on charter schools, the California Healthy Kids Survey results, purchase of a special-needs bus, and a host of other items.

From Art Schroeder
City of West Sacramento

For at least 15 days in May, West Sacramento is right up there with the most photogenic cities in the land! The city's annual photography contest, "15 Days in May," returns for the seventh season, May 1. Where is your camera?

"15 Days in May" invites amateur photographers to take a closer at West Sacramento's faces and places. The two main rules require that contest photos be taken between May 1 and May 15, 2005; and that the subject of the photo must be in or of West Sacramento. Photos may be color or black-and-white. Either digital or film-loading cameras are allowed. However, only one photo entry per contestant will be accepted, so be ready to take your best shot!

Cash prizes are available in each of the six entry categories—$500 first prizes, $250 second prizes, and $100 third prizes! Photos are judged on the basis of originality, visual appeal, and composition.

Enter one of the contest's six categories, depending on your eligibility:

- Resident (with separate divisions for "Under 18," "18-55," and "Over 55");
- Non-resident;
- Currently studying photography in college; or
- Working in West Sacramento (employed by the city of West Sacramento or a West Sacramento-located company or organization).

There is no cost to enter the "15 Days in May" contest. Fill out the official entry form, available at city offices or the city's Web site. Turn in the completed entry form and photo print to the West Sacramento Civic Center, 1110 West Capitol Avenue. With city administration offices closed on weekends, the contest deadline has been extended to 5:30 p.m. on Monday, May 16—however, contest photos must be snapped no later than May 15. Film developing is the responsibility of contestants. Entries will not be returned and photos can be used for promotional purposes following the contest.

Winners will be announced in June at a meeting of the West Sacramento City Council.

For more information and official contest rules, call (916) 617-4500 or visit the city Web site (www.ci.west-sacramento.ca.us).

The "15 Days in May" photography contest is sponsored by the city of West Sacramento, in association with The News-Ledger, The West Sacramento Press and Carwen Printers.

Drug suspects arrested after West Sac chase

Agents of the Yolo County Narcotics Enforcement Team (YONET) believe they caught a suspect involving in distributing "half-pound to pound" quantities of methamphetamines to Yolo County destinations. The arrest occurred earlier this month, after a chase starting in the parking lot of the Carl's Junior restaurant at Harbor Boulevard and Evergreen Circle in West Sacramento.

YONET reports that, in cooperation with the West Sacramento Police Department, undercover agents arranged for the purchase of methamphetamine in the restaurant's parking lot. Suspect Anthony Guerrero, 36, arrived in a BMW driven by Jose Gutierrez.

Guerrero is from South Sacramento, and Gutierrez lives in Woodbridge.

YONET agents and police officers attempted to arrest the pair while the suspects were still in their vehicle, but the pair sped from the parking lot – striking one of the undercover vehicles. Police units chased the car westbound on Evergreen and saw a bag thrown from the BMW's window. The bag's contents were scattered in the street, but tested positive as crystal methamphetamine. About an ounce of the drug was recovered, although YONET agents said they believe several ounces were lost in the roadway.

The suspects' car stopped on West Capitol Avenue just west of Evergreen, but agents say Gutierrez refused to follow officers' instructions, and was bitten by a police dog during the arrest. Guerrero was also arrested.

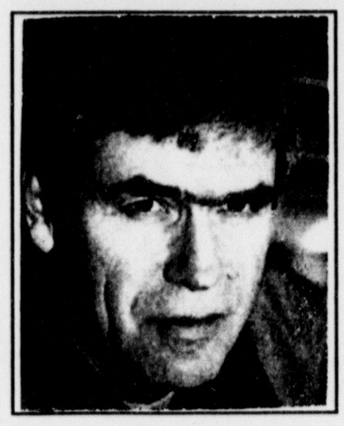
About 15 more grams of the drug were recovered from the car's floorboard area.

Firefighters and then Woodland Memorial Hospital treated Gutierrez, and both were booked into jail for drug and conspiracy charges. Gutierrez was also charged with felony evasion of arrest. Their bail was set at $300,000.

YONET agents later served a search warrant on Guerrero's Sacramento home, finding six grams of crystal methamphetamine.

Lessons from the jobs of our youth

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

I was leisurely driving around town the other night when it suddenly dawned on me that almost all of the places where I have been gainfully employed at one time or another in West Sacramento have now been bulldozed to the ground. The first to go was the old Broderick Market, where I had once been a box boy (they actually used boxes back then, not "paper or plastic"). I was only 15 at the time and my varied duties (in addition to boxing and carrying out groceries) required me to catch and expel wine-stealing bums and also provide directions to anyone who wanted to know where the upstairs back room was located. God only knows what took place up there, although looking back on it now, the words gambling and prostitution come to mind.

And just a few months ago, the old West Sacramento Pharmacy building on Merkley Avenue next to the library, where the Bagdazian family once heroically employed me to deliver prescription drugs in their brand new delivery truck (I had just received my driving license) was systematically burned to the ground as part of a training exercise for local firefighters. And I of course have still not fully recovered from the fact that the old News-Ledger building and the land it rested on (which housed the paper for almost 40 years) is now nothing but rubble waiting to be turned into a bigger and better Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Anyway, as I drove along I thought about what a shame it is nowadays that it is almost impossible to drag the youth of this generation away from their friends and their cell phones and their video games and their music CD's and their reality television shows and even suggest to them that getting a part-time job might be a worthwhile activity. Not only do they not have time for flipping burgers, but the thought of slaving away for the minimum wage or their friends actually seeing them doing such a thing seems to make their blood run cold. Part of the problem of course is that there are no longer as many part-time jobs out there for young people. But parents like me are part of the problem, too, having let most of my kids more or less have a free ride work-wise as long as they kept their school grades up and stayed out of trouble.

As I look back on all my youthful jobs, though, I wish there was some way to make the new generation at least consider the fact that getting up off their collective butt and getting a part-time job -- any job -- might leave them with some of the best memories (and most important lessons learned) of their lives.

For instance, when I was only 14, I spent a blazing hot summer up on West Capitol Avenue cleaning discarded old bricks with a hand axe, but sitting next to me was my friend Jimmy Garcia, who taught me by example that all work is honorable and that racism only makes sense to fools.

And working at the Broderick Market taught me that even the least amongst us (bums and winos) have their own dignity and story, and but for the grace of God go I.

And working for the pharmacy taught me how to be responsible behind the wheel of a car and properly handle money, because I still shudder to think of what might have happened to me if I had put a dent in Mr. Bagdazian's new delivery truck or returned to the pharmacy without the proper change.

But maybe the most important lessons of all were ones I learned as a Sacramento Bee Boy, which was my part-time job from the ages of about 10-13. First, a little history. Back in the late 1950's there was no more sought-after part-time job for a West Sacramento youngster than being a Sacramento Bee Boy. Luckily, a neighbor's son who had grown too old for the job decided to give me his route, which consisted of all of Michigan Boulevard, all the streets near and around Westfield Village Elementary School, plus Laurel Lane, Rockrose Road, and Madrone Avenue (including all the hundreds of apartments on that street). Anyway, back then, Bee Boys not only delivered the papers to their customers daily, but they also had to collect $1.50 from each subscriber at the end of the month and send it off to the Bee. And since I lived for going to the bank at the end of each month with my profits (which were all of about $30 if everything went well), and also loved watching the lady at the window carefully write down my deposit and then stamp my little black savings book with the date, I took my collection duties very seriously.

So, there I was one cold winter night, dressed in my ugly yellow raincoat, with the wind howling and the rain pouring down, out collecting from as many subscribers as I could find at home in the Madrone apartments. After I had gotten off my bike and rested it on the ground, I slogged all the way upstairs to apartment #11 (I will never forget the number), and just before I was about to knock on the door, I happened to look through the window curtains, which for some reason had not been completely drawn, and there in the front room, on one of those pullout couch beds, were the man and woman who owed me $1.50 for reading the Sacramento Bee all that month. However, on much closer examination, I could clearly see that for reasons pretty much unknown to me at the time, they had removed absolutely all their clothing, and they were also doing a whole bunch of things I had never seen (or even dreamed of) before. So, there I stood, eyes wide open, my wet feet bolted to the ground, frantically wiping the water from my face, and trying to figure out if I should go ahead and knock on the door, which was bound to disturb what the very energetic couple inside was doing, or just wait patiently in the dark until they were completely finished. And after giving it a few minutes of very serious thought (all the time using the wonderful logic of youth), I of course opted to wait -- and wait -- and wait.

So, all you young teenage unemployed boys and girls out there, I am here to tell you that not only can a good part-time job teach you how to be responsible, reliable, hard-working and good at taking care of your own money, but it can also be a really great way to learn pretty much all you need to know about the birds and the bees!

Explaining Mello-Roos, Part III

Almost everybody has heard of Mello-Roos. I thought it important to explain what exactly it is This is the final part of a three-part series on Mello Roos taxes.

David Trussell

DRE Lic. #01010462

Q. How much will the Mello-Roos payment be?

A. The amount of tax may vary from year-to-year, but may not exceed the maximum amount specified when the district was created. In the case of the purchase of a new house within a subdivision, the maximum amount of the tax will be specified in the public report. The Resolution of Formation must specify the rate, method of apportionment, and manner of collection of the special tax in sufficient detail to allow each landowner or resident within the proposed district to estimate the maximum amount that he or she will have to pay.

Q. How is the special tax reflected on the real property records?

A. The special tax is a lien on your property, essentially like a regular tax lien. The lien is recorded as a "Notice of Special Tax Lien" which is a continuing lien to secure each levy of the special tax.

Q. How are Mello-Roos taxes affected when the property is sold?

A. The Mello-Roos tax is assessed against the land, but is not based upon the value of the property, therefore, the possible increased value of the property does not affect the amount of the tax when property is sold. The amount of the tax may not exceed the original maximum amount stated in the Resolution of Formation. Any delinquent payments must be satisfied before the sale of the real property since the unpaid amounts are a lien against the property.

If you or someone you know has any questions about Mello-Roos or just loans in general, please contact me so that I can answer any questions.

SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Rich Novoa

The NFL Draft has come and gone with the 49ers grabbing a quarterback for the future in Utah's Alex Smith and the Silver and Black attack playing some defense. The Raiders drafted two cornerbacks, two defensive linemen and a linebacker for next season while the Niners established their franchise with there No. 1 pick. Smith, who was rated the top quarterback in the draft, will begin negotiating his new contract with the hopes of reporting to work in July.

Last years top pick, Eli Manning, signed a huge six-year contract worth $54 million with New York that included $20 million guaranteed. The bad news for the Niners is Alex Smith has the same agent has Manning. I smell a $60 million dollar deal cooking in S.F.

Kings Korner

The Sacramento Kings limped into the playoffs Saturday night losing game 1 in Seattle 87-82 but the good news is Bobby Jackson and Brad Miller actually played in the game. Miller only played a few minutes scoring 7 points in eight minutes but Jackson ran round the court for 16 minutes and put up a big goose egg. It was a very bad day for the Kings guards. Between House, Jackson and Bibby they scored a total of 3 points! Ouch!

Mike Bibby, who scored a grand total of three points, had his worst day has a pro hitting on one free throw and one field goal in 16 attempts. The Kings must show more intensity or the Sonics will bring out the broom.

The Kings defense held the explosive Sonics to only 87 points but only managed to score 82 points. Shooting 38% from the field and making 9 of 15 free throws will probably cost you the game against a good college team.

Game two is a must for the Kings because the Sonics have the home field advantage during the best of seven series. Game two is set for Tuesday night in Seattle. The Kings return home for Game 3 on Friday night (7:30 p.m.-ch.10/ESPN) and Game 4 on Sunday (7:30 p.m.-ch.10/TNT) night. The fifth game of the series moves back to the State of Washington on May 3rd.

My Playoff Picks!

In the Western Conference the Suns are the team to beat but watch out for Denver. If the Kings can remain healthy I like the Kings in 6 games over Ray Allen and the Sonics. Dallas will comeback against Houston in 7 games and Phoenix will sweep Memphis. The series to watch will be the match up between the Spurs and Nuggets. I like the Nuggets in a 6 game upset.

Shaq and the Heat will dominate the Eastern Conference but keep your engines running with the Detroit Pistons. The Heat over the Nets in 5 games and the Pistons will beat Iverson and Webber in six while the Celtics and Bulls squeak out wins over the Pacers and Wizards.

NFL News

The Raiders drafted two cornerbacks to patch up a few holes in their 32nd ranked defense. Fabian Washington and Stanford Routt were drafted in the first and second rounds to join the Raiders secondary. Al Davis added quarterback, Andrew Walters from Arizona St. to compete for the third QB spot.

The Niners added a couple of offensive lineman and a bruising running back from Miami to shore up their roster. Frank Gore, who rushed for 1,000 yards last season for the Hurricanes, has been slowed by injuries to both knees. The 49ers added center David Baas and tackle Adam Snyder to the roster to protect their new 6-foot-4 quarterback.

Did you know? Since 1950, the 49ers have drafted 882 players from 249 schools but they really like USC players. The 49ers have drafted more players from the University of Southern California (23) than any other school.

Boxing News

Eric Regan (24-2) was shocked last Thursday at the Arco Arena by late substitute Darmel Castillo. Castillo not only won a 10-round split decision but he floored the Sacramento contender twice. It's back to the drawing board for the popular fighter. West Sacramento's Gilbert Martinez (18-8-3) will fight on ESPN2 Friday night in Las Vegas against local Samuel Peter (22-0).

Enjoy your day – GO KINGS - See ya next week!

Lamar wins

West Sacramento native Burney Lamar past two cars in the last lap to win the NASCAR Grand National Division race in Phoenix on Thursday night.

Lamar is still a point leader on the NASCAR's Southwest tour.

He races in both divisions this Saturday at the Stockton 99 raceway.

RC tennis defeats Vanden

From RCHS

The River City High School tennis team hasn't spent much time anywhere but in first place over the last decade, and following last week's 5 to 4 win over visiting Vanden, they are there again. A month ago, the Raiders dropped a 6 to 3 match to the Vikings down in Fairfield to fall behind Vanden in the Capital Valley Conference standings. But the Raiders used the four weeks since then to improve and the payoff may just be the team's tenth consecutive league title.

Against the Vikings, RC received early wins from Brian Koell and Lu Saetern in the #1 boys

Do You Have to See EVERY House in Town?

Some buyers want their Realtor to make house-hunting easier by eliminating all houses that are too big, too small, unattractive, overpriced, or just not what the buyer wants. Others want to see EVERYTHING because they don't want to miss the 'perfect' home.

You don't have to see every house on the market, though, if you establish good communication with the Realtor. Finding the perfect home is collaborative. You communicate what you want, why you want it, and where compromise might be possible. We listen carefully and select homes that meet your criteria.

Trust and communication are the best ways to find your house.

Q. Recently, I learned that Madonna, who I know was a Catholic, had changed her religion, but it wasn't to Judaism. Has she become a Muslim or (embraced) any other faith? — Laura L.

A. Madonna is a student of Kabalah, which is a mystical philosophy based on — or some would say inspired by — Jewish teachings, but it is not part of the religion. And you're right, she has not converted to the Jewish faith. Nor has she converted to any other religion. She remains a Catholic.

Q. I'm curious to know why "The Apprentice" seems to favor male contestants over females. Is this because, as I've heard, Donald Trump doesn't want any woman who might win to have a big job in his company? — D.K.

A. Apparently, not so. The show would insist that men and women are given equal status in starting their assignments and are ultimately judged only on how they accomplished them.

Q. I was told by a friend who worked for an American company in Argentina that for some reason, actor Bill Pullman (who was recently in the series "Revelations") once pretended to be the president of the United States when he was in South America. What's the story behind this? — R.M.

A. The story is that while Pullman was in South America promoting the movie "Independence Day," in which he played the American president, stories appeared that he really was the chief executive of the United States playing the role. It sounds incredible, but sometimes it's the incredible that people want to believe.

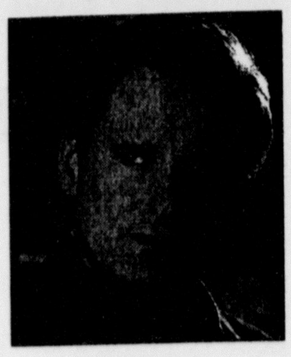
Q. As a Greek-American myself, I would like to know if it's true that Jennifer Aniston's father, actor



Bill Pullman

John Aniston ("Days of Our Lives"), told her that her next husband should be of Greek ancestry as a way of honoring their heritage? — Dorothy J.

A. I had asked John Aniston about a similar story several years ago, and he told me how much he and his daughter respect and honor their Greek heritage. However, her marrying someone of Greek ancestry was never an issue.

Q. Is Miguel Ferrer of "Crossing Jordan" related in any way to the late actress Audrey Hepburn? My sister says yes, I say no, and our mother says she'll believe what you say. — Jayne B.

A. Miguel Ferrer is the son of the late actor Jose Ferrer. Audrey Hepburn was married to actor Mel Ferrer. Some records indicate that Jose Ferrer and Miguel Ferrer trace to the same family in Spain, some of whom went to Puerto Rico (Jose Ferrer's birthplace) and some to Cuba (where Mel Ferrer's parents were born).

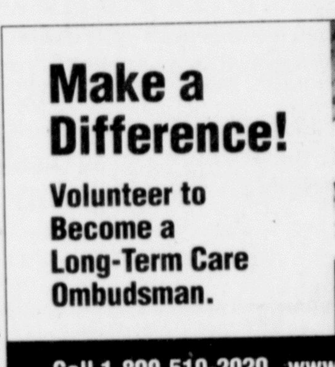
JANE LOWAS
Cents-Able Designs
(916) 372-8407



"Do you wish your space was more pleasing, or has a fresh new look, but don't know where to start? Are you overwhelmed with stacks of papers or belongings that need to be organized? Need a special gift certificate for a friend who has everything? Or are you selling your home, and need to make it more appealing?

"I can help!," says Jane Lowas of West Sacramento's Cents-Able Designs.

Lowas isn't an "interior decorator," and she won't come to your home full of commands for you to move walls and buy new furniture sets. She is a reasonably-priced consultant who shows up at your door bringing a fresh eye to what you already have, and offering some suggestions on how to make your home more livable, inviting and pleasing.

'On the day of the redesign, you leave in the morning. When you return in the evening, you will have a new and exciting space.'

"My service provides room make-overs using your own furnishings and some very affordable accessories, such as candles, up-lights, old books, easels and plants. Most redesigns take only one day after a short consultation to determine your needs."

Homeowners who want Jane's advice but are willing to do the follow-up work themselves can retain her purely for consulting -- starting at an hour for $50. Jane will also do the hands-on work, if you wish, at a rate of $25 per hour for redesign, organization and staging.

"On the day of the redesign, you leave in the morning," said Jane. "When you return in the evening, you will have a new and exciting space. I will also provide you with a list of suggested purchases, if you wish, to complete your new room."

"She repositioned the furniture, and moved a large rug we had to an angle, which really made a statement," said Yvonne. "My friends were so impressed by the difference she made, they asked her to do their house. And we plan to ask Jane to come back and do my husband's office!"

Cents-Able Designs loves to attack clutter.

"Most people have too much clutter!," she said. "If organization is a problem -- with paperwork, closets, drawers -- I will organize it for you!"

Call Jane Lowas at Cents-Able Designs, 372-8407. She'll be happy to discuss what she can do for you on your budget to fit your needs. She can also mail or fax you a flyer describing her services.

doubles match and from Jordan Balluch and Sandy Phouanglalsy in mixed doubles. However, Vanden took both of the day's girls singles matches and the top girls doubles contest to take an overall 3 to 2 lead.

John Shofner won his boys singles match 6-1,6-2 to even the score at 3-all and after RC's Anna Bouttavong and Pa Yang won their girls doubles contest, the Raiders took the overall match when the #2 boys doubles pair of Ou Saejao and Brandon Yip overcame a 2-6 deficit by winning 8 straight games for a 10-6 victory. The afternoon concluded with a marathon #1 boys singles tilt that saw RC's Judd Jadol losing in three grueling sets 7-5,6-7,6-2.

Also last week River City defeated Dixon by the score of 8 to 1 in another C.V.C. contest. The Raiders are now tied with Vanden for first place in the C.V.C. at 9 and 1, with an overall record of 16 and 2 this season.

Over the weekend, some of the Raiders competed at the annual Quincy Invitational Tournament. RC's Vu Tran took 1st place in the girls singles event and teammate Judd Jadol won the boys singles. Tran also partnered with Koy Saetern to win the girls doubles bracket. Saetern came in third in girls singles and Jordan Balluch finished fourth in boys singles. In the team competition, River City took first place out of the eight schools present.

The Raiders finish the regular season this week with home matches against Forest Lake Christian today and Foothill tomorrow. Both contests begin at 4 p.m.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Trying to get into the Guinness Book of Records can be a dangerous business. In Frankfurt, Germany, 650 people were involved in an attempt to set the world record for the biggest tug-of-war match. Unfortunately, the organizers didn't take into account the pressures that so many people would place on the thick nylon rope that was used. When the rope snapped, it whipped back so violently that the teams collapsed. In the ensuing mayhem, a 9-year-old Boy Scout was killed; a few days later, another Boy Scout, this one 10 years old, died from injuries sustained during the tragic incident.

• It's still not known who made this sage observation: "The difference between gossip and news is whether you hear it or tell it."

• It's been reported that while making the film "The Perfect Storm," actor Mark Wahlberg was seasick a total of 52 times. Now that's dedication to your craft.

• Jordan's Queen Rania was once an employee of Apple Computer.

• In 2001, the Doris Day Animal Foundation launched a campaign to encourage New Yorkers to neuter their pets. It was called "2001: A Spay Odyssey."

• Michigan is evidently mad for mud — at least, when it comes to naming bodies of water. The state is home to two Muddy Lakes, five Big Mud Lakes, 17 Little Mud Lakes and a whopping 237 Mud Lakes. In contrast, northern Wisconsin has a Near-Clear Lake, seven Clear Lakes — and five Lost Lakes, which makes you wonder how they were ever found to begin with. And with 110 Long Lakes, Minnesota seems to be commenting more on the shape of the feature than the quality of the water.

• In Jamaica, there is an actual law firm called "Lawless and Linch."

• It's been reported that in the early 1900s, Czar Nicholas II of Russia had 50,000 light bulbs changed in the palace annually. He felt that every light needed a new bulb every year, regardless of whether the bulb was burned out or not.

• In Shakespeare's day, any actor who was late for a performance would be fined 10 shillings.

• Do you wear glasses? If so, chances are you probably get annoyed by them at one time or another when they slide down your nose or the arms chafe your ears. Well, James Sooy, a Dallas-based artist, has come up with a solution. He pierced the bridge of his nose with a small barbell and attached the lenses to the barbell with magnets. He says that the piercing is relatively painless; he plans to market his "pierced glasses" for $100.

• Coming in at 6 feet 4 inches, Abraham Lincoln ranks as the tallest man ever to serve as president of the United States. At 5 feet 4 inches, James Madison was the shortest.

OPINION

Letters to the Editor

Thanks, firefighters

We wish to publicly thank the West Sacramento Firefighters for washing down the black sooty dust from the steep sides of the freeway underpass at Westacre Road. The underpass now looks not only cleaner, but brighter, making it appear less frightening for some people.

Our thanks to all the participating fire and administrative personnel for making our community a better place to live.

LEONARD & KATHERINE TRIBOLI

Thanks, Arnold

Kudos to you, Governor Schwartzenegger, for voicing the plain truth. The security of our borders, both north and south, are a not so very funny joke, and the lack of enforcement of their boundaries (as continually re-ordered by our federal government's political appointees) is well-nigh criminal. If we don't know and keep track of who's coming in, and why; where they are, and what they're up to; and, whether on time or not, when they leave, we're asking for multiple disasters to befall us.

Multiple disasters? The patently obvious and real threat of terrorism aside (multiple Arabic to Spanish dictionaries found in our southern deserts, for example), we already permanently fixed illegal immigration some twenty years ago with the amnesty act passed into law during Reagan's administration. That folly was supposed to end it forever. Remember?

You've said that we must have a business-friendly atmosphere here in California, yet we have artificially depressed wages in those areas where the hiring of illegal's is tolerated, which, when coupled with their free medical care, schooling, food stamps, cash grants, etc., actually lead to much higher total costs to society than whatever it is we save at the market or wherever else we consume the products of their essentially slave labor.

Not a fan of Tom DeLay

Daryl Fisher's column on Tom DeLay was right on target. Mr. DeLay is a truly odious man. However, he did leave out one thing. Remember five or six years ago when a crazed citizen shot his way into the congressional office building and headed straight to Tom DeLay's office? DeLay locked himself in his inner office and one capitol security guard was shot and killed right outside his hall door. Two guards, both family men, sacrificed their lives that day.

Later, Mr. DeLay tearfully spoke of the courage of the men who protected him. I remember thinking that this may be one of life's rare second chances. Was this DeLay's burning bush on the road to Damascus? Just as the wicked Saul became the blessed Paul, would DeLay examine the error of his ways and become a changed man? No such luck. If anything, he became even more ruthless. A fine man like Sen. Tom Daschle was driven from office, but "The Hammer" remained.

It pained me to be in any way associated with DeLay (or his gang) as I prayed for the life of Terry Schiavo. That was a horrendous two weeks watching a disabled woman slowly murdered on prime time T.V. (Mr. Schiavo is now a member of a very exclusive club, with members like O.J. Simpson and Robert Blake, who have gotten away with killing their wives.)

The Bible says "the eyes are the windows of the soul". I saw the light of love in Terry Schiavo's eyes. I see nothing but a mean devious glint when I look into the beady eyes of Tom DeLay. But thankfully, those who live by the sword are prone to die by the sword. One can only hope he has finally become too smelly to ignore and maybe (just maybe) will eventually end up doing some jail time. Meanwhile, remember the final salute of Dan Rather -- "Courage".

Guest opinion:

Turn that thing off—

By Alan Candee

One day at the Walnut Grove Post Office I was snarled at by a man who said, "You're the guy who wants us to get rid of all our TV sets, aren't you?"

Yes, I'm the guy who promotes National TV Turnoff Week, but I'm not suggesting you throw out your TV forever.

Just take a break from television for one week, that's all, one week out of fifty-two. My favorite spectator sport is basketball, and if I can miss one week of the NBA playoffs, you probably can, too. I'm not going to suggest that you record the games on your VCR. I tried that. When the week is over, you aren't interested in how the Kings played against their previous opponent. What you can do is listen to games on the radio: it's live and it brings a sense of how most fans "viewed" sports years ago. It'll be different, and that's what TV Turnoff Week is about: trying some different activities in place of the standard fare of sitcom after sitcom, drama after drama.

It might surprise you to know that a majority of teenagers wish they could spend more time with their parents. Furthermore, most parents and children say they, too, want to spend more time together. Yet two-thirds of families eat dinner with the television set on, and that's not really time together. Why not take advantage of an opportunity? Try a conversation starter like "The If Book" or "The Conversation Piece". (These books provide hundreds of questions that spark discussions for family members of all ages.)

Mothers tell me they use TV to keep the kids occupied, out of their hair while they're making dinner, safe from more hazardous activities. They say, "You know it's not safe to let kids play outside without supervision," and "TV is a safe alternative." I respectfully disagree.

Would you consider giving drugs to a young child on a daily basis to: (1) keep him/her from getting into trouble, and (2) keep him/her sitting in one place for an extended period of time? Probably not, but we do use television for that purpose.

The biggest problem with TV is the staggering amount of time it takes up in our lives. When National TV Turnoff Week began in 1995, the average child spent four hours a day in front of a television set. Today, as screen time is redefined as time spent watching television as well as computer/video games, children aged 2-17 spend between 4.5 and 5.5 hours per day in front of electronic media. That means most children spend more time in front of a television than in a classroom during their entire childhood!

Sports teams, music lessons, dance lessons, church events and many other legitimate activities compete for a finite amount of our time. The ultimate choice of how we spend our precious leisure time should be thoughtful and calculating and should not be passively surrendered to the manipulation of television and advertising executives.

Would you consider giving drugs to a young child on a daily basis to: (1) keep him/her from getting into trouble, and (2) keep him/her sitting in one place for an extended period of time?

Probably not, but we do use television for that purpose.

So maybe you are ready for a vacation from that electronic guest you invite into your house every night. You know, the guy who captivates your children with jokes but teaches them bad language and rude behavior, the guy who rudely and relentlessly barks sales pitches at you to buy things you neither need nor can afford. If he were real you probably wouldn't invite him into your house in the first place, but for some reason you let this particular one inside day after day after day. He is a stranger who exposes your family to many things that, if you thought about it, you wouldn't want your family exposed to.

Just for this week, at least, don't let this intruder in. Explore some new territory with your family. It's only for a week...or maybe you'll make it longer.

"Kung Fu Hustle"

Running Time: 95 minutes
MPAA rating: R

Where else but in a Stephen Chow movie do you get to see a gang of hundreds of ax-wielding homicidal maniacs celebrate their latest rampage by performing a slick, Busby Berkeley-esque dance number?

Nowhere. That's why "Kung Fu Hustle" is one of the funniest, most entertaining and imaginative films you'll see this year. It's one part Shaw Brothers 1970 chop-socky, one part Looney Tunes, with a dash of "Gangs of New York," "The Shining," "The Matrix" and a wee bit of "Airplane" thrown into the pot.

Although the film is more than an hour and a half long, it seems like 10 minutes. The pacing is so tight, so fast and furious, and the fight scenes so imaginatively choreographed, that you get totally sucked into the film and lose track of time.

"Kung Fu Hustle" is directed and written by Stephen Chow, who also stars as Sing, a gangster wannabe who wanders into a Shanghai slum, Pigsty Alley, posing as a member of the dreaded Axe Gang in order to extort whatever money he can from the poverty-stricken residents. His plans go awry when the Axe Gang discovers what Sing is doing, and they converge on Pigsty Alley to teach Sing and the residents a lesson in Fear and Big Pain.

Little does the Axe Gang realize, but Pigsty Alley is home to many kung-fu masters who have given up their warrior ways to live the rest of their lives incognito. What results is a series of battles that escalate in intensity and metaphysical dimensions.

To say any more would spoil the fun and exhilaration you'll experience as each new villain appears, sporting even more powerful kung-fu abilities and magical powers.

Stephen Chow

There is also a subplot involving Sing and a mute, incredibly sexy ice-cream vendor (Huang Sheng Yi) that gives "Kung Fu Hustle" a few needed moments of childlike innocence and wonder to give us some breathing room between the fights.

Speaking of which, the violence in this movie, although at times cartoonish, is also at times very brutal. The R-rating is well-deserved, and I'm glad the studio didn't water down the action to deliver a PG-13 rating.

"Kung Fu Hustle" is well worth your time and money. You will definitely get more bang for your buck at this flick. And I'll bet you'll see it more than once.

• On May 6, 1937, the airship Hindenburg, the largest dirigible ever built and the pride of Nazi Germany, bursts into flames upon touching its mooring mast in Lakehurst, N.J., killing 36 passengers and crewmembers.

• On May 3, 1947, Japan's postwar constitution goes into effect. The progressive constitution granted universal suffrage, stripped Emperor Hirohito of all but symbolic power, stipulated a bill of rights, abolished peerage and outlawed Japan's right to make war. The document was largely the work of Supreme Allied Commander Douglas MacArthur and his occupation staff.

• On May 4, 1959, the winners of the first Grammy Awards are announced. Henry Mancini won the Best Album award for "The Music From Peter Gunn"; Perry Como was voted Best Male Vocalist, and Ella Fitzgerald Best Female Vocalist. "Volare," by Domenico Modugno, won Best Record.

NO ONE USES MORE TOMATOES THAN ITALIANS

There may be no statistics on this, but it's safe to say that no one uses more tomatoes than Italians and those of Italian heritage. Whether or not they know or care about the health benefits, they enjoy tomatoes, cooked or raw, for their color and flavor. Now we know tomatoes pack a nutritional wallop. Rich in lycopene, they also have a wealth of vitamins A and C.

Fresh Florida tomatoes are in the market now. They are shipped when firm enough to hold up under the rigors of travel. When you buy them they may be full red and ripe. Or they may be light red or pink. In which case, keep them at room temperature on the counter, stem side up, out of direct sunlight, until they yield to gentle pressure and are tomato-y red.

Getting back to the Italians, they also like dried beans. In our Stuffed Tomatoes With White Beans, they combine the two and flavor them with Parmigiano cheese and just a touch of hot pepper.

STUFFED TOMATOES WITH WHITE BEANS

- 4 fully ripened large Florida tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons minced garlic
- 1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 1 can (19 ounces) white beans, drained and rinsed
- 4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, divided
- 2 tablespoons Italian-flavored breadcrumbs

Cut off top 1/4 of tomatoes; with a spoon, scoop out and discard seeds. Brush outsides of tomato shells with 1 tablespoon of the oil; place tomatoes in a microwaveable dish. In a medium-sized skillet, over medium-high heat, heat 1 tablespoon of the oil. Add onion; cook and stir until golden, about 4 minutes. Add garlic and red pepper, cook and stir 30 seconds longer. Stir in beans; bring to a boil; stir in 3 tablespoons of the cheese. Fill each tomato shell with the bean mixture, dividing evenly. In a cup, combine breadcrumbs and remaining 1 tablespoon oil. Sprinkle tomatoes with crumbs. Lightly cover and microwave on high until tomatoes are tender but retain their shape, about 4 minutes. Sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon of cheese. Serve alone as an appetizer or on the side with grilled steak, chicken or fish.

And to Kenneth G. of Santa Rosa, Calif. I wish I could tell you the real skinny on the "Brad Pitt situation," as you call it. Yes, it does look like there's a bit of something between Brad and Angelina. By the time you read this we may know. I must admit they do make a beautiful and sexy couple. He was taken to court immediately and pleaded guilty. Last Wednesday William Graham was sent to Woodland by Judge Barry to spend ninety days in the County Jail on a charge presented against him by Constable Wilson for vagrancy. He welcomed the sentence, because he believed it would be the means of breaking him of the narcotic habit.

J. P. Yost, fire warden in this locality, swore to a warrant last Wednesday against Alfred C. Gregory for having started a fire on his ranch north of town and letting it get beyond control. The fire resulted in the destruction of twenty acres of grain on a neighboring ranch owned by Mr. Luce. When arraigned before Judge Barry, Gregory pleaded not guilty and he was given time so that he might consult his brother in Oakland, T. T. C. Gregory. It is understood that Gregory may contest the charge made against him by Yost and demand a jury trial when the case is called again.

Ed. Webber of Oakland remitted a fine of ten dollars last Thursday to Judge Barry's court. This was a fine of ten dollars assessed against him some time ago when he pleaded guilty to a charge made against him of cutting in by Traffic Officer Jacobs. Webber had been threatened with arrest about a week ago and remitted the fine before the threat could be put into operation.

Condemnation Proceedings Filed in Superior Court for Right of Way Over O'Connor and Harbinson Properties

In the Superior Court at Woodland yesterday suit was filed against Thomas O'Connor and Mrs. J. Harbinson for right of way for the state highway that is about to be built to connect with the M Street bridge .

The State Highway Commission, through Engineer McLeod, made an offer to the owners of the property, but it was rejected and decision was arrived at to stand suit rather than give up the property for what the owners consider to be a trifle.

Some time ago the Realty Board of Sacramento named three appraisers to value the property desired for a right of way. The appraisers were Ben Leonard, George Artz and J. C. Carly.

With their valuation Thomas O'Connor did not agree and instructed his attorneys to stand suit rather than lose the property for the price offered.

The State Highway Commission will not be delayed in the construction of the road, because it will make a deposit to cover the damage done as appraised by the Realty Board committee.

Bids are now being asked and will be opened on August 17th, at 2 P.M., for the construction of the roadbed and the subway from the pavement in West Sacramento the subway that now exists at the foot of Fifth Street.

Immediately after the bids are examined a contract will be let to the lowest bidder for the construction of the subway and the grading of the roadbed.

The excavation of the subway will furnish enough filling to complete the grade in the West Sacramento District and also to fill the borrow pit from the new subway to Fifth Street. This borrow pit will be filled simply to grade, contrary to the opinion that prevailed some time ago that the road would be elevated to a height just about four feet less than that of the embankment of the Sacramento Northern Railroad.

At the Fifth Street subway the level of the new roadbed will be level with the road that exists at the present time.

Other property owners whose holdings will be affected by the construction of the roadway to the M Street bridge have agreed to the offer made by the Highway Commission for right of way. These are D. J. Silvey, The West Sacramento Company, the Southern Pacific Company and the owners of the property left by Baltzer Marty.

In all, the O'Connor and Harbinson interests will forfeit three acres for the right of way. The exact figure offered for this land by the State Highway Commission could not be ascertained, but it is understood to range around $6000.

Thomas O'Connor claims that he will be damaged at least, in the loss of this property, $10,000, and that he will still be loser by the cutting up of his land.

Contrary to the popular understanding in Washington, it is understood now that no work had been done by the State Highway Commission within the town of Washington. Any work done to connect the pavement in West Sacramento with the Southern Pacific bridge was done by the Yolo County supervisors.

The condemnation suit entered against O'Connor and Harbinson will not delay the construction of the roadbed. As soon as the bid is let, work will be started immediately on the subway and the filling removed therefrom will be used on the roadbed in West Sacramento and north of the embankment.

Engineer McLeod assured the Independent yesterday that the new roadway would be twenty-seven feet wide in the concrete portion, with a total width of thirty-seven feet.

Near the M Street bridge the road will swing in a wide circle northward and take up some of the property of the Southern Pacific Company that is now used as a camping ground.

NEW AUTO CAMP BEING ESTABLISHED NEAR WESTGATE

On the land lately purchased from the West Sacramento Company, consisting of two acres, by E. Schaffnit, an auto camp is being established at the present time under the direction of R. McQueen.

Besides the auto camp there will also be built an oil station, a grocery store and an automobile accessory station.

The two acres is now being used by Mr. Schaffnit as a storage place for fuel. Great piles of oak are stacked on the lot and more is arriving every day.

McQueen, speaking to the Independent yesterday, said:

"We are about to build on this property about 120 cabins of two rooms each. In addition we are going to erect one large buidinlg 400 feet in length and 28 feet in width. This building will be used for campers with a parking place for automobiles provided between each apartment.

"On the roadway we are about to erect a building that will house an oil station and a grocery store, and practically the entire two acres will be utilized for building purposes."

At the present time a building is being erected measuring 30x20 feet. This is to be used as the office for the camping ground and woodyard.

It is located on the highway between the M Street bridge and West Sacramento headquarters and immediately opposite the California State Rice Milling Company's mill.

McQueen also stated that every modern convenience necessary in camping life would be added to the grounds. There will be shower baths, a large community kitchen, a community laundry and a community dance hall. These are to be of the most modern type so that no excuses can be offered by those who occupy berths that they cannot get conveniences.

Already the office building is about three-quarters completed and construction of the other buildings will be started next week.

NEW WATER MAINS TO BE INSTALLED THROUGHOUT WESTGATE

A decision has been reached by the bondholders' committee of West Sacramento to lay new water mains of six inch diameter throughout the Westgate district and to be connected with the new pump that was installed last week.

Last Saturday a test of the well was started and continued for seventy-two hours continuously. The test proved that an inexhaustible supply of water is waiting for use in the district. The great motor and pump were kept incessantly working during these seventy-two hours with very little depreciation in the water level of the well.

During the test the water measurement showed that the pump was throwing 950 gallons of water per minute and continued the discharge during the three days and nights.

The quality of the water continued during all the tests to be of the very best quality with an unending supply that should meet all the requirements of the district for many years to come.

During the operation of the well J. Peltier and G. M. Jones, secretary of the bondholders' committee, were on the ground. They were highly pleased with results and immediately decided that new mains would be installed throughout the district of six inches in diameter and of galvanized iron pipe.

This new provision for a supply of good water in the Westgate district will be an assurance to land purchasers and home purchasers that a continuous and splendid supply of water will be aways available.

Bids are now being asked by the West Sacramento Company on the pipe and when the purchase is made installation will be started immediately.

In the meantime the old pump and tank that has served for several years near West Sacramento headquarters will be continued at work to furnish water for those who now make their homes in the district.

LINGERING SICKNESS BROUGHT DEATH OF MRS. EMMA REINERSMAN

At the age of 78 years, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Reinersman passed away last Saturday morning.

During the past five months Mrs. Reinersman had been seriously ill and demanded practically the entire time and attention of her daughter, Mrs. P. A. Hart.

During two years Mrs. Reinersman had been more or less confined to her home with diabetes.

During the past fifty years Mrs. Reinersman had been a resident of Washington. Twenty-eight years ago her husband, Fred Reinersman, passed away and since that time she continued to make a living for herself and a young daughter, now Mrs. P. A. Hart.

She was a native of the State of Illinois, and on leaving there came directly to Washington and continually lived here since that time.

Prudently and genially taking care of her home, Mrs. Reinersman had little time for the follies of these days. She was more than busy looking after her family, and it was to her family that she devoted nearly her entire time.

During three years she served as postmistress of Washington.

She was a member of the Lutheran Church of Sacramento, and services were held at her home by the Lutheran minister on the day of her funeral. Her husband and three children preceded her to the grave.

Her funeral was held last Tuesday from a Sacramento undertaking parlor and interment was in family plot in the I. O. O. F. Lawn Cemetery.

THREE-INCH WELL SUNK FOR HOUSEHOLD PURPOSES

On the holdings of the Alaska Packers' Ass'n on what is known as the old Rice lease of Washington Lake a three-inch well has just been sunk by the association to provide a supply of water for Fraga and Azeveda, who have rented 500 acres of land there.

Fraga and Azeveda families are making their homes on the tracts and needed the supply of water for domestic purposes.

The well was sunk to a depth of 253 feet so that all surface water might be shut out.

The 500 acres rented by Fraga and Azeveda have been planted to alfalfa and are being watered from the irrigation ditch that runs through the district.

CLARKSBURG LADY IS ROBBED IN SACRAMENTO

Mrs. H. Johnson, residing at Clarksburg, this county, reported to the Sacramento county police yesterday that the night previous she had been robbed of jewelry of the estimated value of $700 and which included a $600 solitaire diamond ring.

Mrs. Johnson, who was en route to her home in Clarksburg from Los Angeles, obtained a room for the night at 804½ K street, Sacramento. The Yoloite reports that she was awakened by a noise and just caught a glimpse of a man sliding through an open transom.

Aside from the valuable diamond, among the loot taken was a small gold pin valued at $25, other smaller items of jewelry and $5 in cash. The police have no clew.

What is the matter with the labor unions of the United States?

Only the other day the Standard Oil, for the first time, conceded an eight-hour day for its workingmen throughout the country.
